

I am very concerned about the introduction of this new broadcast service known as Low Power FM(LPFM). K-Love radio station, based out of Sacramento, CA., has meant a lot to me. It is a very positive, encouraging and uplifting radio station. It is the only station I listen to. People listen to KLOVE on an FM translator. I understand that these new LPFM's would take priority over current FM translators. I do not understand. If KLOVE already has FM translators how can a new LPFM take its place and KLOVE be forced off the air? I am asking you to not give these new LPFM's priority over stations that already have FM translators. Forcing KLOVE off the air is not in the public's best interest. They would no longer be able to "turn on" and listen to encouraging words even to the point sometimes, of saving a person's life. If a person is contemplating suicide and happens to turn on KLOVE and hears that someone really cares and there is a hotline for this person to call and speak to someone, this could save this person's life. Please, seriously consider letting the FM translators have priority over the new LPFM's.

Thank you for your time.
